TENTH IN LIST OF THE STATE OFFICES

Janesville Well Up in List of Post-office Receipts According to Latest Table.

Janesville is tenth in the list of the first twenty Wisconsin postoffices in the state having shown a decided growth since the last count was made. The statement shows an increase in the total receipts of $211,200.92 during the year 1909 as compared with 1908. No better evidence of the general business prosperity which has been enjoyed everywhere throughout the state during the last twelve months could be had.

It is a significant fact, also, that this year, for the first time since Judge Keyes undertook the compilation of an annual statement of this kind, several years ago, every postoffice in the list shows a substantial gain. Following is the table compiled by Judge Keyes:

	1907.	1908.	1909.
Milwaukee	$1,502,831.61	$1,400,271.06	$1,475,306.19
Racine	203,184.42	215,380.08	240,856.09
Madison	120,004.70	125,290.47	170,454.25
La Crosse	124,894.79	109,567.92	120,443.25
Oshkosh	80,475.03	88,829.70	91,576.86
Green Bay	69,306.11	66,422.19	61,477.02
Shoboygan	62,050.05	57,384.73	60,759.71
Superior	57,011.14	55,370.33	60,511.39
Kenosha	48,360.00	47,550.27	53,527.91
Janesville	44,235.94	47,516.23	52,932.20
Eau Claire	43,914.41	49,171.06	51,514.81
Fond du Lac	43,300.14	47,425.21	49,986.66
Deloit	41,002.97	43,544.08	48,554.81
Appleton	32,194.87	35,720.81	39,277.19
Wausau	28,525.30	30,064.30	37,509.21
Waukegan	31,200.00	32,238.60	34,882.94
Stoutsville	28,091.34	26,570.84	30,556.78
Port Alorton	27,292.42	27,900.95	30,088.11
Marquette	27,618.02	24,718.03	27,214.19
Ashland
Totals	$2,453,406.51	$2,618,522.85	$2,820,613.77
Increase in 1908 over 1907.			$165,116.34
Increase in 1909 over 1908.			$211,200.92

The first nine postoffices in the list still maintain the same relative position as during 1907 and 1908. Janesville and Eau Claire, however, both moved up ahead of Fond du Lac. The amount of receipts for 1909, Janesville taking precedence over Manitowish and Port Alorton barely crowded in ahead of Marquette.

Of the twenty postoffices named fourteen are first-class, having over $100,000 annual receipts, and the remainder come under the head of second-class postoffices.

That part of the bottom of the drawer which extends outside when the latter is moved in the limit of its outward range is pulled, the other end being perforated to permit the cold air to pass through more readily. Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours.

A brick dust settling, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties.

If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

CIVIC FEDERATION GIVES PINCHOT GREAT OVATION

Ex-Forrester Urges Support of Administration Conservation Policy in Every Particular.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Gifford Pinchot, former forester of the United States, was accorded a most enthusiastic welcome when he made his appearance at the meeting of the Civic Federation in this city.

Men stood on chairs waving hats and umbrellas, while the women shook their handkerchiefs. The cheering lasted nearly five minutes.

Mr. Pinchot, his face one broad smile, was taken off his feet. He had expressed some doubt as to how he would be received, in the face of the recent expression of executive disapproval. His misgivings were promptly met at root.

Mr. Pinchot's speech was characteristically brief. He made no reference to the recent controversy. He urged the immediate enactment of the proposed conservation laws, the transcendence of the true purposes of the conservation policy over personal feelings and the support of the administration conservation policy in all particulars.

President Taft attended the meeting of the federation. He was warmly greeted and in his short speech of congratulation to the members of the organization, was in his happiest vein. His speech referred chiefly to the necessity for the simplification of the American system of laws and equity procedure. He discussed the necessity for uniformity in the state laws regarding marriage and divorce, as well as laws supplemental to the national laws regarding the conservation of natural resources.

MISSOURI IS TO FIGHT
PRICE-RAISING TRUSTS

Attorney General Major Will Start Inquiry—Jawa Action Is Promised.

St. Louis, Jan. 18.—Attorney General Major of Missouri, in a statement declared his intention of investigating the methods of the alleged meat trust and other combinations, with a view of giving the consumer a relief from the exorbitant prices now being charged for meat and foodstuffs of all kinds. The inquiry will be inaugurated as soon as the press of business will permit.

The attorney general's staff of assistants now is gathering data and if this shows that any particular set of men or combination of firms is responsible, and if they can be reached by the law, drastic action will be taken.

Don Moines, Ia., Jan. 17.—With a view of securing indictments from the grand jury, County Attorney Thomas J. Guthrie has commenced an investigation into the causes of the prevailing high prices in foodstuffs. He admitted that he had secured some evidence tending to show that agreement between butchers, grocers and bakers existed, and were partially responsible for the unreasonable prices.

Washington, Jan. 18.—"Most of the prices for food products are clearly out of all reason," said Cardinal Gibbons in an interview, "and the people cannot go on paying such prices when they are not earning any more than they were some years ago when prices were not so high."

The cardinal was unable to assign a reason for the high prices that prevail, but he said that something "evidently is wrong when many of the commonest necessities in foods are priced at such enormous figures."

London, Jan. 18.—Lady Constance Stewart Richardson made her first appearance last night as a professional "barefoot" dancer at a public music hall. She has given her dances for money before, but at private affairs for charity, the last time being at Covent garden. At that performance the bishop of London was present, but left before Lady Constance appeared.

Her exhibition last night was the most daring display that London has seen.

It was given at Alfred Butte's palace music hall, where Lady Constance is said to receive a salary of $1,000 a week, which, it is reported, she will devote to charity.

When she appeared on the stage the audience sat up and gasped. She wore flimsy drapery, practically transparent. Her costume was such that it would not have been tolerated if worn by a professional dancer, but worn by a woman of title nothing was done.

In this costume she gave four dances, much the same as those she has given at other times, although, perhaps, more daring than those she gave in New York when she danced before society there.

The audience was silent until she had finished the last dance and then broke into thunderous applause.

Minnesota Dairyman Meets.

Hutchinson, Minn., Jan. 18.—President W. F. Schilling of Northfield called to order at ten o'clock this morning the thirty-second annual convention of the Minnesota Dairyman's association, and expressed his pleasure at finding such a large attendance. The mayor welcomed the visitors, J. H. Morley of Owatonna responded, and the officers of the association made their reports. The addresses of the afternoon were by Rev. Samuel Currie of Park River, N. D.; O. A. Storvick of Crookston, and F. M. Wolfe of Montevideo. Tomorrow evening the citizens of Hutchinson will give the dairymen a banquet.

Is Placed Under Arrest on Charge of Embezzlement.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 18.—Harry E. Muehlbroener, for years teller of the Workingman's Savings and Trust Company of the North side, was placed under arrest charged with larceny and embezzlement of the funds of the bank. Muehlbroener is son of ex-State Senator Charles Muehlbroener, one of the big business men of Pittsburg.

The bank knows it is $40,000 short, at least, and Muehlbroener is charged with having taken it all. Muehlbroener has admitted that he took $22,000, but says a brother-in-law, who was connected in a stone quarry with him, needed the money for the business. The stone quarry failed, however.

Animal Trainer Dies from Injuries Which Brute Inflicted.

New York, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Pauline Russell, the animal trainer who was attacked and torn by one of her big leopards at Huber's museum a week ago, died in Bellevue hospital. For a time it was thought she would recover.

Mrs. Russell was about forty years old and a widow. Since the death of her husband six years ago she had been supporting herself and her children by training and exhibiting wild animals.

Virtue in Snake Meat. Though the prescription seems to have disappeared from the pharmacopoeia of modern "beauty specialists," it was for centuries notorious that to feed on snake meat was the way to win perpetual youth; to cure scrofula, again, or any other swelling, all that was necessary was to munch a viper, from the tail up, as it might be a stick of celery; while yet another snake, if eaten, conferred the power of understanding all the tongues of birds.

FOR MAKING NEST EGGS

Mold Enables Farmer to Manufacture Own Aids to Laying.

Farmer and chicken fanciers need no longer depend on the china egg market for their nest eggs. An American man has invented a mold by which any man may turn out as many of these artificial aids to laying as he thinks his hens will need. The mold consists of a receptacle made in two parts, each part of which is hollowed out in the shape of half an egg. One section has fingers jutting from it and the other section fits inside these fingers and over an inner rim of the first. The material used to make the eggs—it may be plaster of paris or clay—is placed in the two sections and the mold is fitted together. The mold is then placed in an oven and baked until the contents have hardened. When it is taken out and opened and a perfectly formed artificial egg falls out. To complete the resemblance, a coat of white enamel should be given the oval and any hen may be led to tell it from the real article.

The ordinary stationary washtub is equipped with a hinged wooden lid that permits of the tub being used as a table when not put to its primary use and which lifts back against the wall when the washing is to be done. Unfortunately, some of these lids have been known to fall on washwomen's heads as the latter were bending over in the tub and, in fact, and occasionally serious injuries. A Massachusetts man has met this tendency with a wash tub cover that rolls up.

STRIPS MAKE IT FIRM.

Like the curtain of a buggy top, the cover is made of some strong but flexible material and has ribs running lengthwise to it. These ribs are long enough to rest on the sides of the tub enough to form a surface sufficiently solid to hold articles of ordinary weight, as well as a board lid. To open the tub the cover is rolled back against the wall and buttoned into place. The washwoman may then get to work without fear of the lid falling on her.

WOMEN DELEGATES TO NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION.

At Top—Mrs. Huntley Russell. Below—Mrs. Charles P. Arthur.

Lansing, Mich.—Governor Warner of Michigan has appointed Mrs. Clara P. Arthur of Detroit and Mrs. Huntley Russell of Grand Rapids, president and vice president of the Michigan Equal Suffrage association, delegates to the National Civic federation, which will meet in Washington, January 17-19.

Mrs. Arthur is the wife of a prominent artist of Detroit, and is herself very well known in that city for her devoted service to the public welfare. She was Detroit's representative in a recent national convention, held in the interests of establishing playgrounds in Detroit. In recognition of her efforts to establish free baths the first from bath house in the city was named "The Clara."

Mrs. Arthur is prominently identified with the City Federation of Women's clubs and is an officer in the state federation. Under her leadership the women of Michigan made a splendid fight for full woman suffrage in the constitutional convention. Though 175,000 women united in this petition, the full suffrage measure was defeated, but taxpayers' suffrage was granted, which gives women taxpayers a vote on school questions, appropriations, bond issues, franchises, grants, etc.

Mrs. Huntley Russell has taken a very active part in the equal suffrage movement. In securing signatures to the petition recently presented to congress seeking equal suffrage for women, it was Mrs. Russell's work which made the list so representative from Michigan. Through her efforts the names of practically every state official, including that of the governor, were added.

THE PEOPLE'S CHAMPION

The Gazette published last evening a circular letter from State Superintendent C. P. Cary, issued to teachers and school superintendents throughout the state. The letter deserves the widest circulation, and should be carefully read by every parent.

It has to do with the grave injustice which has so long and is still being perpetrated on the public schools by the university in demanding the right to prescribe a course of study to meet the requirements of the state schools.

This condition exists because of ignorance and indifference on the part of parents, not in exceptional cases, but as a rule; for the average parent knows less about the school where his boy or girl is educated than he does about the barn where his stock is kept.

The state superintendent goes to the heart of the matter in a direct appeal to the educators who are so largely responsible for these conditions, and it is to be hoped that his appeal will not be in vain.

When the fact is considered that out of an enrollment of 20,000,000 school children and young people, of all ages, that only 350,000 are found in the higher institutions of learning, of all classes, representing only one and a half per cent, it would seem that the ordinary mind of the average educator would recognize the fact that the 98 1/2 per cent who graduate from the common schools are entitled to more consideration.

It should also be noted that 90 per cent of these common school pupils graduate from the grades with but little to show for it in the way of practical knowledge.

Ask any businessman who has to do with these young people when they enter active life, and he will tell you that they are more deficient than the boy from the farm who depends on the country school house during the winter months for an education.

These conditions are not only wrong but they are a crime, because they rob the boy of an opportunity which never comes to him but once. This time will come, and it should come soon, when the university will be eliminated as a factor in making up the course of study for the high schools. The following paragraphs from Supr. Cary's letter tell the story:

By some hocus-pocus the citizens of our cities have quite generally come to believe that a high school that stands well at the state university is just what is wanted; and all that is wanted, it is only natural for many superintendents and principals to feel the same way for most of them are graduates of the state university or other colleges, and they naturally feel that a course at the university is the chief end of man. Pupils that chance to be cut on the bias and do not fit into this scheme are then regarded as lacking ambition and mental power. They are a bother and the sooner they "go to work" the better, but the fact is that many of these pupils that thus drop out of school are not lacking in either brains or ambition. They simply do not find it congenial to study Latin and ancient history and pursue a course that leads in the direction of the learned professions. It seems to me fortunate that some can not be coerced or wheedled, or driven into the professions, but I regard it as most unfortunate that such people can not get in our schools the kind of instruction suited to their needs.

Why should a state or a people be so tremendously zealous about giving an opportunity to every one who shows any symptom of desire to enter a profession, and yet will give little, if any, help beyond the rudiments of literary education to those who prefer to make a living in some other kind of social service.

A KNOCKDOWN ARGUMENT

"I ran up against an advertising argument the other day that can't be beat. Stepping into the store of a man who had done no advertising with us, I walked back to the rear of the establishment, where the proprietor sat toasting his toes. I put the question to him squarely, and asked him if he did not want to help his business by advertising in our weekly.

This was his reply: "No I don't want any advertising. We don't want any more business. It would mean that I would have to get out in the cold this winter to deliver my goods. We have enough business to get along on, and if I advertise it will only mean more work."

"I advised the gentleman not to advertise. Can you beat that for an advertising argument? Who says advertising doesn't pay? If you don't want business don't advertise."

This scrap of experience is related by the publisher of a little paper in Illinois. The man was honest enough to admit that advertising would bring him more business, but that would mean more trouble to wait on trade and he didn't want the bother. A town full of that kind of people would make a peaceful cemetery, but they haven't any license to be occupying space in the business world.

WHAT IT DONE FOR LEAVENWORTH

WORTH

The city of Leavenworth, Kansas, has long enjoyed the reputation of being a dead city, and not only dead but politically corrupt. Two years ago the city went dry under the county option law and when the loss of $80,000 in license money was confronted all sorts of dire predictions were made concerning future prosperity.

About the same time the commission form of government was adopted, and for the past year and nine months the city has enjoyed, for the first time in its history, a clean business administration free from politics.

What has been accomplished is told in a little pamphlet just issued by the Greater Leavenworth club. It is too long to reproduce, but briefly summarized it includes buildings and permanent improvements to the amount of $575,000; five and one-half miles of paved streets, which is half as many miles as the city has built in the last thirty years; an increase in population of 2,800, and every business place in the town equipped.

While these improvements have been going on, old debts have been paid and taxes have not increased. The people of Leavenworth give all credit to the commission form of government, and say that the city is better off in every way without the saloon.

Good enough for Leavenworth, good enough for Des Moines, good enough for every city which has ever tried it, but not good enough for Janesville. "There is a reason," and it is nothing to be proud of.

The El Paso Herald, in which J. C. Wilmhurst, formerly of the Gazette, is interested, recently issued a 50-page edition known as the "Sky Scraper." It is devoted to the city in all its varied interests, and is a credit to both public and private enterprise. El Paso, Texas, with a population of 40,000, has a property valuation of $30,000,000. It is the coming city of the southwest, the great supply center of the mining region and fully alive to its opportunities. The Herald has recognized and appreciated as a live wire in the campaign of progress.

According to the Chicago Tribune the House of Representatives at Washington is in a state of political anarchy. While harmony does not seem to be the watchword, the opinion of the Tribune should be taken with a grain of allowance. That paper is so much in sympathy with the insurgents that its judgment is warped. Taft and the party will survive.

The report comes from Omaha that Mr. Bryan will be a candidate for president again in 1912. This ought to add in clearing the political atmosphere. There is no reason why the Nebraska orator should not be a candidate as he represents all there is left of organized democracy. He will never be elected president, but he may aid the conservative element of the republican party in retaining control.

The city of Madison is preparing for a no-license campaign at the spring election, and other cities will follow suit. Janesville will wait for the aid of county option and when that is secured Rock county will be one of the first in the state to go dry.

The city of Berkeley, California, with a population of 12,000 has neither saloons nor disorderly houses. A force of eighteen policemen preserve order. The city is under commission rule and well satisfied.

Automatic Moistening Record.

An automatic electric moistening record, including signals as well as trips, is kept by a new instrument used in a mine of South Africa. As the cage or skip moves up or down, a small disk carrying a needle travels along a strip of paper ruled into time spaces, and thus marks down the time of the trip. Each ring of the signal bell perforates the paper, the number of perforations showing whether the moistening has followed the signals.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON

(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

"O Doc," I cried, "I humbly beg, that you will amputate my leg." "The doctor cheerfully complied, and shot some dope into my hip, and made his buckskin fairly rusty with 'Just, mon!'"

DOC JONNESCO said, until it struck a flush with a spade. And as he dug and tolled away we talked about the price of hay, the recent frightful rise in pork, the sugar grafters in New York, the things we found in Christmas socks, the sherry in Rock Island steaks the hookworm and the hamburger's nose, the bright career of Captain Loose, I felt no pain or ache or shock; it pleased me much to watch the doc; and when the job was done, I said: "Now that you're here, cut off my dome of thought, and when I asked him for his bill: "There is no charge, already still; I work for Science, not for cents, so keep the doc-lars on your side; to banish pain is my desire; to nothingness send you bet, I'll be so happy, always, yet!"

Is there a more heroic game? Could any man have nobler aim? One poet, old, and bald and fat, to this great man took off his hat!

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE FACE OF A CHILD.

There is so much of good in the worst of us And so much of bad in the best of us That it scarcely behooves any of us To talk about the rest of us.

Whoever wrote the above lines, assuredly there is in them more of truth than of poetry.

The other night a burglar, masked and armed with a revolver and a "blumny," entered the home of Adolph Hubert of Rogers Park, Ill.

He held up Hubert and his wife in their bed at the muzzle of his weapon and got $5, all the money in sight.

The burglar started to back away when he caught sight of little Marie Hubert, aged four years, asleep in her crib.

What was it? Did he have children at home, or was it some tender resolution?

Anyway, this burglar who a few moments before was a desperado went over to the crib and looked a long time down in the face of the sweetly sleeping child.

Then he went back to the bedside of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert, handed over the $5 he had taken, dug up a quarter besides and said:

"This is my change, and I haven't got a whole lot either. I need it, but I'm going to leave it for the little kid."

His voice grew husky. "Just hand her this quarter when she wakes up, will you? She's all right."

Then he went away. What is there in the old book about babies "attiling the avenger?" And it says "a little child shall lead them."

There was a good spot in the burglar, and the face of the child caused invisible fingers to touch that spot.

Dickens, you remember, says there is a vein to every heart, though it may be up to a winding stair.

Who knows what a crisis in the life of that man may have been made by the little one there sleeping the breathless slumber of childhood?

Anyway— It doesn't behoove the best of us to talk about the rest of us.

HUSBAND TRIES TO KILL BRIDE OF THREE DAYS

Charged He Threw Her Into Well—Woman's Feet Are Frozen.

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 18.—Charged with having assaulted and thrown his bride of three days into a well in Fairfield, Conn., Joseph Marok was arrested, together with Bartoni Lusky, his alleged accomplice, when they presented a check for the woman's trunk containing her bank book, at the Union station in this city.

The marriage certificate and a woman's pocketbook answering the description of one taken from Mrs. Marok were found in Lusky's possession. A notice of the marriage intentions of Marok and Miss Anna Masokol of Chicago was found on Marok. The prisoners were hustled back to Connecticut without extradition formalities. The specific charges against them are assault with intent to murder, highway robbery and theft.

Mrs. Marok was found by William H. Forlin in his well and rescued after having kept her face above the water for 12 hours by clinging to the frozen surface. Both of her feet will have to be amputated and she may die.

JOHN D'S LIFE THREATENED.

Is Guarded by Seven Employees Deputized as Sheriffs.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Jan. 18.—On the request of John D. Rockefeller, Sheriff Scherp of White Plains appointed seven men on his large country estate at Pocantico Hills to be deputy sheriffs.

The oil king, it is alleged, said his life was threatened some time ago and he has been almost constantly surrounded by a guard and the action of the sheriff gives his employees the authority to carry arms and make arrests. Their jurisdiction, however, is to be confined to the Rockefeller premises. It is said that most of the men who have been deputized to guard Mr. Rockefeller are old-time secret service agents who are employed about the place ostensibly as coachmen, groom, gardeners and attendants.

DRUGGIST'S MISTAKE IS FATAL.

Searches Three Hours For Patient Given Wrong Prescription.

New York, Jan. 18.—Huntless, catless and almost insane from anxiety, Frank La Scala, a druggist at 2033 Second avenue, spent three terrible hours running about in the wintry air here trying to save the life of Philippine Staudella of 15 North Bond street, Mount Vernon, to whom by mistake he had delivered a wrong prescription. In the end La Scala failed by five minutes to reach the victim of his error and the stricken man died in the Mount Vernon hospital.

ARSENAL WORKMEN ON STRIKE.

Spanish Cavalry Are Rushed to Three Points—Much Disorder.

Madrid, Jan. 18.—Police re-enforcements and cavalry were rushed to the arsenals at Ferrol, Corunna and Gijon, where the workmen employed on the warship docks have declared a general strike and are creating much disorder. With the strike at the Madrid arsenal work is suspended at all the large arsenals.

The strike is inspired by the discontent in the army, which has resulted in the removal of hundreds of army officers.

DEFAULTER IS SENT TO PRISON.

John D. Hess, Former Collector of Hinsdale, Pleads Guilty.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—John D. Hess, defaulting collector for Hinsdale, pleaded guilty at Wheaton and was sentenced by Judge Maxwell-Blosser to an indefinite term in the Joliet penitentiary. When he had pronounced sentence upon Hess, Judge Slesser expressed his regret at doing so because of the defendant's family, and said that he would forward the facts in the case to the pardon board.

Shorthorn Breeders Are in Session.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 18.—The Central Shorthorn Breeders' association, the members of which hail from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, met here today in annual convention to discuss questions pertaining to their business. Gov. A. C. Shallenbarger of Nebraska, president of the association, is presiding over the sessions, which continue through to-morrow.

He was severely cut about the neck, nose and forehead, but will soon recover.

Atmospheric Qualities.

The earth's atmosphere extends some 40 miles in height, but becomes, at only a few miles from the earth's surface, too thin to support any form of animal life.

Be Polite at the Telephone

Nowhere are politeness and tact more necessary than at the telephone. The merchant especially is becoming more and more dependent upon the telephone for his business, and a pleasant clear voice with an equitable temperament and an unusual degree of patience are often required to conduct a telephone conversation which will have the right effect. Many people who are particularly pleasant in ordinary conversation seem utterly at a loss for words and mannerism with which to carry on a polite conversation over the telephone. A gruff, unsympathetic voice, a seemingly sharp or impatient expression will often cause the person at the other end to size up the whole establishment accordingly and too much stress cannot be placed on the fact that it is always better to be a little too polite rather than not so polite enough.

After Seven Years

The other day a new patient came to my office.

"Dr. Richards," she said, "I am visiting in Janesville but I live in Canada. At home there is a family who lived here and had some work done by you before they moved to the Canadian North west seven years ago. They told me to be sure to come to you if I wanted good dentistry, for they had proved so."

Good work pays. It pays the owner and it pays the dentist who does it. Let me demonstrate my ability upon your teeth.

BUILDINGS DAMAGED BY WEIGHT OF SNOW

Two Barns, a Storehouse and a Shed Collapse Under Weight of Heavy Blanket of Ice and Snow.
Yesterday's rain and the heavy blanket of snow that fell last night proved too big a load for several of the buildings about town to carry and this morning two barns, a coal shed and a storehouse were found to be badly damaged. The roofs on barns belonging to William G. Brandt, who lives on Linn street, and Paul Davenport, of South Jackson street were broken down by the weight of the accumulated snow and ice. A load on the large building used for storing purposes on North First street, which is owned by Francis Grant, collapsed at 2 o'clock this morning. A coal shed on Madison street, owned by W. H. H. Macdonald, was almost completely demolished. The entire roof caved in and all that now stands are the badly wrecked sides. None of the buildings are considered very valuable, but the aggregate loss will amount to several hundred dollars.

BELOIT CITY TEAM TO MEET CARDINALS

Line City Basketball Squad and Locals to Play Friday Evening.

Friday evening at the West Side rink the first of the series of games planned to be played between the Beloit City basketball team and the Cardinals of this city will take place. In these games Janesville will attempt to retrieve the glory lost on the basketball diamond last fall. Purring, one of the Beloit players, who assisted in defeating Janesville in most of the games last fall, is to appear with the Beloit basketball five, as center, and is reported to be a whirlwind. With him are appearing a number of other Beloit stars. While it is admitted by Janesville backers that Beloit may be a whirlwind, they prophesy that the "Whirlwinds" will think a cyclone has struck them when they bump up against the Janesville aggregation. Palmer, one of the old stars of this city, will probably play with the Cardinals in this match with the rest of the Cardinal squad are expert players. The probable lineup will be: Bennett and Palmer, centers; Deers, Booth, and Langdon, guards; Mathews, Sonnett and Birch, forwards.

CITY IN NO DANGER OF COAL FAMINE AT PRESENT

Fuel Supply Is Sufficient to Last Until More Can Be Shipped in by the Railroads.

The arrival of two cars of coal at the plant of the Janesville Electric company, which supplies the electric for a number of Janesville merchants, will undoubtedly lessen their anxiety as to the proper heating of their places of business. While the full shipments have not yet been received yet the arrival of the cars, one on Sunday and the other on Monday, will relieve their minds as the present supply will be sufficient to last two weeks and by that time the rest will probably have arrived. The danger of a coal famine in this city is at present not very great, other factories and business houses having received shipments yesterday.

Fight Irritability.
We must take life as we find it, better if we can, but certainly there is no sense in throwing our heads against the stone wall of absurd temper and unnecessary peevishness. There are many exercises for quieting the nerves, but every one requires that you first gain control of yourself. And the girl who has acquired the irritability habit cannot overcome it until she recognizes this fact—12x change.

"Yes," whispered the lovelorn girl, the big tears shining in her eyes. "I told you you were a traveling man and showed him your card. He wrote 'K. O. T.' on my corner."

"What in the deuce is that?" asked the surprised young man. "Some secret code?"

"No, I am afraid not. It means 'keep on traveling.'"

WIFE DESERTER TO STAND TRIAL JAN. 24

William McComb Waives Examination This Morning—Case Will Be Tried Next Monday.

Charged with abandoning his wife and minor children, William McComb appeared in municipal court this morning and in a carefully worded plea he sought to grant him one more chance to show that he could be a "man among men." In view of the fact that he has already neglected several such chances, his request was denied. After he had waived examination his trial was set for Jan. 24.

THE PRESENT SITUATION IN NICARAGUA AT A GLANCE. A DECISIVE BATTLE IMMINENT AT ACAYAPA. VICTORY WILL PLACE ESTRADA IN CHAIR.

Bluefields (via wireless to Colon).—Optimism among the troops of the long suffering revolutionists. It is confidently predicted among sympathizers here today as a result of the small victories this week that within two weeks President Madriz and the government will be overthrown and General Estrada made president.

The troops forming the main division are at present situated as follows:

General Chamorro is at the head of 3,000 soldiers and is now in the Chontales department. He can easily reach Managua within two weeks and, if necessary, can reduce the time to 10 days. General Mena is within a few miles of Acayapa with 5,000 soldiers under him. Mena is counted on to defeat the government troops under General Vasquez at Acayapa. A decisive battle there is imminent. A small clash took place at Laverdas, 10 miles from Acayapa, the government forces being driven back into the town. Later, it is reported, General Vasquez sent a much stronger force to the outpost and succeeded in checking the revolutionary advance.

If Mena meets with serious resistance at Acayapa, Chamorro will throw his entire army against the town, and there is no one here who doubts that a combined attack of the two wings of the revolutionary army will win an overwhelming victory. The resistance at Laverdas was the first encountered by the revolutionists, which led to the belief that, aside from the expected battle at Acayapa, the march to Managua will be accomplished without serious obstacles. Provisional President Estrada is believed to have the situation so well in hand that there is an increasing demand that he agree to no compromise with Madriz on any other terms than the elevation of Estrada to the presidency.

THE FINAL FETTER. Quia—Are you going to make any New Year resolutions?

New Work for Women. In addition to the 481 vocations that are now open to women in this country, the Animal Rescue League of Boston suggests another—leading pet dogs out for an airing. The widening of woman's sphere seems to be inevitable.

It Isn't Fair. Have you ever heard a child say when it has been punished that "it isn't fair?" You may think nothing of it at the time, but the child does not forget, and sometimes, even years after, the thought of the injustice may still rankle in his mind.

Electric Bakery. In Kerns, Switzerland, is an electric bakery oven eight feet long by four feet wide which will bake 100 pounds of bread at once. Modern methods on a large scale have made bread making in the home almost a lost art.

The Eternal Feminine. "It was to gratify your extravagant tastes," cried the desperate man, "that I committed the forgery. The crime is upon your head." The woman started and gazed at him wondering. "Is my crime on straight?" she asked.

SURVEY OF LABOR BLDG.

Washington, D. C.—Tomorrow and the three succeeding days Washington will entertain members of the Conference on Uniform Legislation, held under the auspices of the National Civic Federation.

The arrangements for this unique convention have been made by a committee consisting of Ralph M. Bailey, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation; John Mitchell, John Hays Hammond and Samuel Gompers, Alton B. Parker, chairman of the committee on program has prepared a most interesting list of topics to be taken up embracing all the subjects upon which there is crying need for uniform legislation as for instance, divorce laws, automobile regulations, handling of explosives, safety appliances, warehouse and shipping measures and other matters of common concern almost too numerous to mention.

The delegates to this conference will include a large proportion of all the most prominent men in the country in every line of endeavor. The delegates will be divided into two general classes. On the one hand there will be accredited representatives from commercial, agricultural, manufacturing, labor, financial, professional and other bodies national in extent.

JUDGE A. B. PARKER, GA.

For instance there will be delegates from the American Bar association the National Grange and all the other great national specialized bodies. On the other hand there will be delegations from each state in the Union composed of prominent and representative men from all parts of the respective states and including such leaders as United States senators representatives, speakers of state legislatures, former governors and attorneys general. All will co-operate in the attempt to develop some means to secure uniform state legislation on matters affecting the entire people and having influence upon interstate commerce, travel social relations, etc.

The Need of Unity.

Every human being is born to companionship. Our first need is a breath of air, the next is a friend. Never till we are alone with the air can we spare the friend. I think not even then.—C. G. Ames.

"Is there anything the matter?" he queried anxiously.

She hesitated before answering. Then she spoke determinedly.

"Yes; two things. First, you did not come to my reception this afternoon; secondly, there is that article about father this morning."

"I couldn't get off from the office to attend the reception, and I am awfully sorry," he protested. "But as for the story about your father—well, did he send you here?"

"No, he didn't send me. But I couldn't help feeling how disturbed he was, and—"

"Then he knew you were coming?"

"Why, yes," Judith was trying hard to understand what he meant by seeking out her father's knowledge of her present mission, one which was to her decidedly unpleasant.

Wheeler was plainly impressed, and unfavorably so, at the girl's reply.

"Oh!" he ejaculated disappointedly.

The quickly thinking girl detected the significant tone of the newspaper writer's reply and hastened to explain.

"I heard my father say at dinner that he feared there would be another attack tomorrow," she said, "and I hoped through you to prevent its publication and to make the Advance apologize for what it said this morning. I don't see how your paper dares to publish such things."

"But, Judith," he answered, "we couldn't dodge a story as big as that. We had to print it. That's what we're here for."

But she was still insistent.

"Oh, of course, print the story, but I mean the insinuation all through. Why, by using such unfair means newspapers can bring discredit on any one. Mr. McHenry refused to apologize. He wouldn't even tell me who wrote it. Do you know?"

Brand gave a violent start. At first, in her present mood, he hardly dared answer the girl. With a determined effort he pulled himself together and answered her question.

"Yes, I know who wrote it."

"Who?" Judith leaned toward him, gazing intently into his eyes.

"I wrote it," he announced.

Judith started back aghast.

"You, Wheeler? Why?" she cried hysterically.

"I had no choice," he struggled to maintain his grip on himself.

"You had no choice?"

"Judith, when this Lansing Iron case first broke loose," Brand responded firmly, "I saw straight off that it was one of the slickest—well, that there was a big story in it. I didn't know your father was involved in this at first. I just followed the path, and when I saw where it was leading me, I wanted to turn back because of you, but I couldn't." He stopped for a moment, then went on: "No, no, I could not stop—not even for you."

"But it isn't loyal of you," was her response. "It wasn't like you—to attack him suddenly in this way. It's almost as if you struck him from behind. And do you not see, Wheeler, that you are hurting me as much as you injure him? I am his daughter, Wheeler, and if you ruin my father, you will ruin me."

She covered her face with her hands, and her bosom heaved convulsively in her anguish.

CHAPTER II.

WHEELER BRAND gazed at the girl, and above his own misery rose his sympathy and thought for her sympathy he longed to comfort, for the girl of his choice, whom duty said he must cause to suffer. He yearned to take her in his arms and wipe away the tears, but he knew that she would repulse him. He throbbled with the desire to prove to her, his love by assuring her that the attack on her father was ended—but his duty whispered, "No."

And to himself he repeated the "No."

For he must go on, and she must endure, and the judge must pay the price.

The voice of an outraged people had spoken through the pen of Wheeler Brand, and he was one of those men strong enough to refuse to take the price of silence.

He led the girl he loved to a chair, even as she sobbed and whispered, "Wheeler, Wheeler, Wheeler," endeavoring from her heart's depths. Brand looked down on her with a world of sadness in his eyes. He well knew, and the world would soon know, that those who sit in the high places must pay the penalty for sin, even as the lowliest among us who more blindly go astray.

Judith Bartelmy had been long enough in society to learn the art of the control and the concealment of emotions. Probably in any other situation than the one where her father and the man she loved were so deeply concerned, as in the present, she would have been able to retain a larger degree of self composure. Several minutes passed before she was able to speak in evenly balanced tones.

"Wheeler," she finally said, "if any one had told me that you would or could do what you have done against my father, against my family—her voice began to break again—against me, I would not have believed it. And you have not told me that you will cease your attack."

Brand thought to palliate her. He seated himself on a corner of the mantling table's desk and bent toward her as she sat in a chair near him.

"Now, Judith, let me try to explain," he said earnestly. "I think I can make you understand. You see, the Lansing Iron company owned a lot of valuable properties—ore ranges, machinery, railroad trackage, etc. If it had been managed halfway it would now be a wealth producing business, but some of our speculators downtown were trying to get hold of it to gamble with. They wanted to milk it, as the saying is, by watering it. They did have a stock market bubble or two, which profited nobody but the lawyers on both sides. But they finally got it by juggling it into a receivership, which they never could have done if a United States judge had not been willing to exceed his functions. That judge was your father."

"Since the works shut down," he went on strongly, "the men are out of employment, and the gamblers have got rich because the company's gone broke. That's all I said."

"But that wasn't your facts," he told you. It was your insinuation, I tell you. That judge was your father."

"Not insinuation—interpretation."

"But it wasn't true—it wasn't true."

"Oh, yes, it was true, and more."

Judith verged on the hysterical again.

"If you loved me as you pretend to, no matter if you thought it true or not, you could not have written that article."

"Can't you see that I wasn't writing about your father, but about a United States judge who?"

She moved farther away from him.

"That's splitting hairs, Wheeler."

He walked to her side.

"Judith, please—please don't let's quarrel about this."

The girl turned to him impulsively.

"Oh, Wheeler, we were on the verge of it, weren't we?" He cast his arms around her. "You're sorry, aren't you?" She looked fondly into his face. "And you will take back that article, won't you?"

"You mustn't ask me to do that; I can't," looking at her earnestly.

"You can't?"

"No."

Judith drew away from him a step or two. She surveyed him coldly.

"Wheeler, I came here thinking only of my father, but I suddenly find myself facing a much more serious question—not what kind of a man he is, but what kind of a man are you."

Brand was deeply cut by her manner and her intonation.

"Judith, if you only knew the truth, all of it, things I can't tell you, you'd be with me heart and soul in what I'm trying to do."

"Whatever I've done or whatever I may do I love you," he insisted passionately.

Judith showed equal fervor as she said:

"And you're more to me than my father, but for my sake you mustn't fight against him. How could we ever be happy together if you did? You'll do this for me, Wheeler, just this? I want you to carry out your ideals and live up to your high purposes in every other way, but you must not attack him, Promise me that you'll never do it again. Won't you promise me that? And you'll retract that article you had this morning. You'll do this for me, just this?"

"Judith—it's the truth—and, knowing that, would you have me retract it?"

"Yes."

"I can't."

Judith began to take off the engagement ring Brand had given her.

"You don't mean to do that," he cried in amazement.

"I must certainly do."

He was almost frantic. He grasped her hand.

"I won't let you mean it. I can't let you go without your ring. You may be Judge Bartelmy's daughter, but you are going to be my wife. You've worn my ring for a month, and you must wear it forever."

The girl passed his passionate appeal by without heeding it. She tossed back her pretty head defiantly, and showed the ring from her finger and snatched it from the man's grasp.

"I'll wear it again," she exclaimed resolutely. "Unless—until you come to your senses!" So expressing herself, she stalked majestically across the room.

"Judith!" called Brand in desperation, fearing that she was about to leave him.
